CLASS POEM

Officers, Teachers, Classmates—all
The time is drawing near
When we to answer duty call
Must part from friends grown dear

Four years, four years have swiftly passed
In retrospect well see
Our ups and downs since freshmen classed
In many a reverie

Four happy, carefree years—perchance
The happiest of our lives
For men and boys, our joys enhance
A school days life re-lives

Who has not heard the school boy sigh
His wish that school was not
But as Commerce and Day draws nigh
His wish he turns about

A feeling like sadness looms
Around a fellow's heart
For school friends very dear he feels
From them 'tis hard to part

Our teachers too seem very near
Though their rules we've often broken
And from Ninety-Six's Senior Year
Thus much to the file spoken

Spoken with no hesitation
Neither flattery lay we on
In our class estimation
Each one is a paragon

Godly teachers too, are they,
Stern and firm, tho' kind to all
By them shown the straight way
Along whose side so many fall

In years to come we'll recognize
The wisdom of their counsels sage
But for years needlessly sold in prize
For lessons taught by age

A costly school-day experience too
And we must always pay tuition
Seems as dear do old-time prison
Compulsory to bare their conditions

To teachers now we dedicate
Difficulties had we few
For means alone we'll make amends
By asking for each teacher's pardon

We put our trust in wisdom's friends
For conditions bettered if we none
This much we can say to you
Scholars of the coming class

Moral lessons not a few
Can be learned ere school-days pass
Your teacher much a task will give
Be ye most attentive

Hearken ye to a warning call
It's not out on the faint
Don't think you know it all
Do not as we go, let do as we say

We're not at all perfect yet, but we the way
To get their good lessons from people who know
The ways of the world, and the way we should go
To Officers, too we would like to confess

That all of them truly our friendship possess
Their good will we trust we have in possession
We'll need the world's friendship in any profession.
Class ninety-six, on of little ship scarr'd

Our joy, by sorrow and death have been marred
Dear relations have passed to their well earned reward
And their souls we all declare at rest in their Lord
Our class is not so large to desert

As when freshmen we staggered our lessons out
A house cannot keep the pace
In a hustling, bustling four years race,
Some, no doubt, had to leave the chase

As necessity probably governed the case
For instance, some have left the city;
Of course that surely was a pity
Others were hasty for business stride

At four o'clock school days school friends school life
We'd not quit ere the chase was done
For four long years we've bravely run
And success crowns effort a well earned reward

For industry spent for working hard
We've stormed the castle in fair open fight,
The castle of knowledge at Mt. Liberty's height
We've stumbled and fallen on the rocky way

But up and on, in battle array,
Clearer by our motto the bugler's cry
Better than ever facing the fray
The fight of the student for well earned pay

We fight not in anger, our hearts the pure light
But we must have diplomas, Commencement
Night

OUR PRAYER

Officers, Teachers, Classmates—all
The time is also drawing nigh
When all of us must meet Death's call
And answer to our God on high

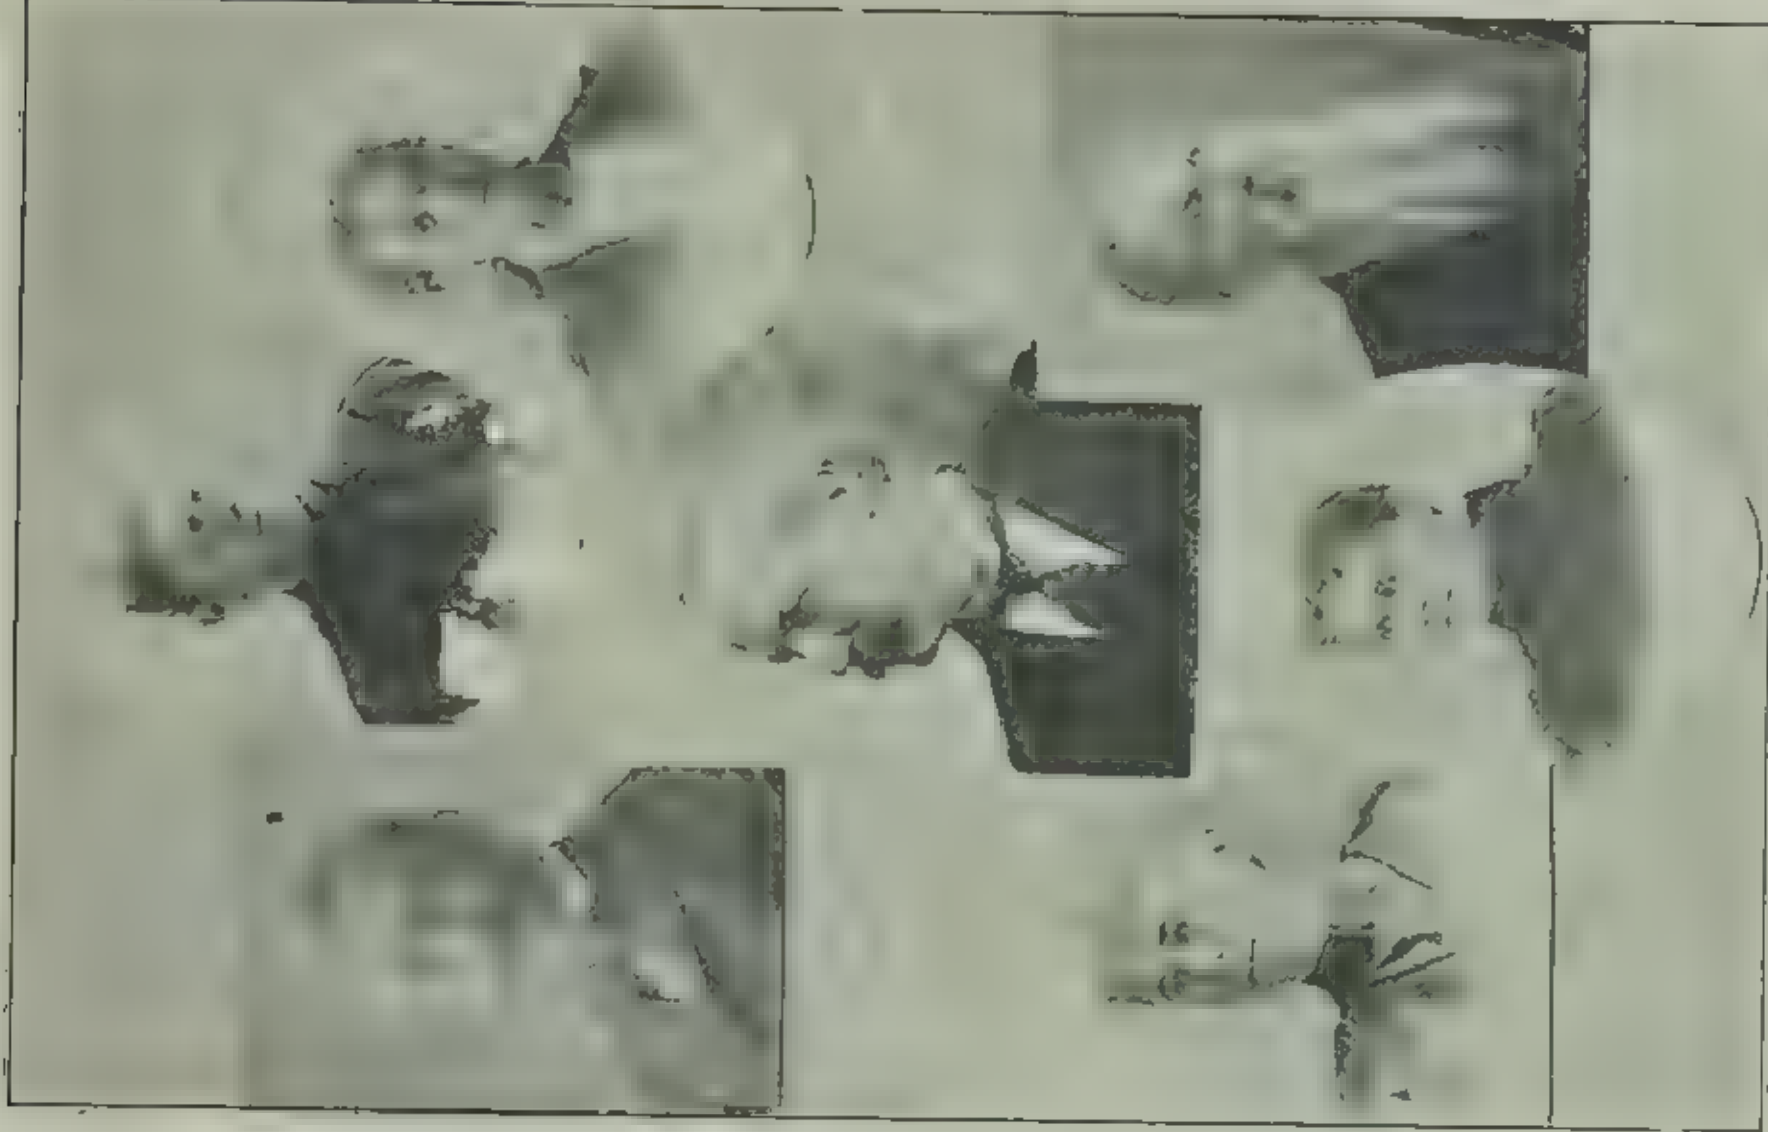

May Officers, Teachers and Classmates—all then
Be accepted, received into Heaven—Amen

In Heaven's school there shall be no care
May all of our class answer present up there
When the Lord who'll be teacher shall open his book
And over his charges against us shall look

1892-'96

CLASS HISTORY

MANY important events have transpired during these four years, the four-hundredth anniversary of the discovery of our country and its celebration by the great World's Fair at Chicago; a picnic never before equaled in our country; wars and rumors of wars; numerous discoveries in science, including the already famous Roentgen rays, and important at least to some, the High School training and graduation of the largest class that ever passed through the schools of New Albany.

As Freshmen, it entered the High School in September, 1892, with an enrollment of fifty-four, as Sophomores, in 1893 with an enrollment of forty-three, as Juniors in 1894 with an enrollment of thirty-five; and as Seniors in 1895 with an enrollment of thirty-three; this being the number graduated.

In the Freshman year a Literary Society was organized, the first of its kind in this grade.

Several interesting and successful meetings and entertainments resulted from its formation, the principal one being a mock trial.

One of the lawyers in this trial is now studying under one of the leading lawyers of Louisville, and several others are making law a special study.

During the Sophomore year, the class purchased for the school library, thirty volumes of standard works.

A male quartette was organized, which has continued to exist until the present time and now known as the Senior Quartette. The members of this quartette are Messrs. Oscar Kahl, 1st tenor; Frank J. Pouch, 2d tenor; Ernest Winning, 1st bass, and Harry L. Cool, 2d bass.

CLASS HISTORY

In the Junior year, the classes of '05 and '06 organized for the mutual improvement of its members the Classical and Literary Society; its main object being to acquire self-reliance and ready thought when speaking in public.

During this year the class joined the Scientific Society, whose members are Seniors and Juniors.

By an entertainment given in the name of this society, sufficient funds were realized to purchase quite a number of volumes for the Scientific Library of the school.

Many important changes have been made in the school since the Freshman year. It now has six instructors instead of three; it has a Physical Laboratory, comparing favorably with the best in the State, being furnished with the most modern apparatus, to which new additions are continually being made, the latest being dynamo and electric motor. These were purchased with money realized on a recent entertainment given by the Scientific Society.

This year the class elected officers as follows: President, Earl C. Walker; Vice President, Ira G. Webster; Secretary, Vesta Hawcott; Treasurer, Dolly McCory.

The Editorial Staff, as appointed by the President consists of Oscar Kidd, Editor-in-chief; Ira G. Webster, Business Manager; Amelia Barth, Edith Gam, and Ernest Manning, Associate Editors.

While the class were Juniors, examinations were declared "out-of-date" making it difficult to award the honors on a class standing. So the choice was left by the School Board to the discretion of the class, and by ballot they selected Miss Ida Sines, Valdictorian, and Mr. Ernest Manning, Salutatorian.

Ten members of the class having completed the required four years course in Latin will receive Latin diplomas of which they may justly be proud. The other members will receive classical diplomas.

The class colors are green and gold; its flower, the pink carnation; and its motto, "Success crowns effort."
